Bug Title: Extra Spaces Allowed Between Character or Words in "My List" Name and Description Creation

Description:

The Wikipedia mobile app allows users to insert extra spaces between character/words when creating a "My List" name. This can lead to inconsistencies in list naming and potential confusion for users.

Reproducible Steps:

- Open the Wikipedia mobile app.
- Navigate to the My List section.
- Create a new list by entering a name and description with extra spaces between characters (e.g., My List 123).
- Save the list.
- Observe the saved list name.

Actual Result:

The app allows the list name to be saved with extra spaces (e.g., My List 123).

Expected Result:

The app should trim or prevent extra spaces between characters, saving the name and Description as My Lis 123t.

Bug Title: App Crashes When Performing Multiple Actions Continuously Within a Minute

Description:

The Wikipedia mobile app crashes when users perform several actions (e.g., navigating between sections, searching, and opening articles) in rapid succession within a short period (less than a minute). This issue disrupts the user experience and requires the app to be reopened.

Reproducible Steps:

- Open the Wikipedia mobile app.
- Perform the following actions continuously within a minute:
- Search for a keyword (e.g., "History").
- Tap on a search result and navigate back.
- Open the Today on Wikipedia section.
- Go to the Randomizer or Trending section.
- Switch between different tabs or sections quickly.
- Observe the app's behaviour after performing these actions rapidly.

Actual Result:

The app crashes, forcing the user to reopen it.

Expected Result:

The app should handle multiple rapid actions without crashing, maintaining stability and performance.
